The Art–Labour Relationship in Contemporary Art

Vilnius, Lituânia (9-10 May 24)

With the fall of the Iron Curtain and the restoration of democracy in Central and Eastern European countries, radical changes in all spheres of life were accompanied by equally remarkable changes in artists' working practices and conceptions. Eastern bloc countries, especially the former USSR members, rushed to embrace art practices and art histories they missed under the control and censorship of now collapsed regimes. New art forms and strategies (performance, installation, public interventions, collaborative practices, media art) flourished, and conceptual acuity and organisational competencies grew in importance next to professional artist's skills, often even overshadowing them.

X Congreso Internacional

Investigación en Comunicación e Información Digital.

Competencias digitales en la era de la Inteligencia Artificial.

Las TRIC para la transformación social

29 e 30 de novembro de 2023

(congreso on line)

El cerebro humano ha sido el motor de la evolución del Homo sapiens hasta llegar a la era de la Inteligencia Artificial. Es necesario abrir un diálogo entre la inteligencia humana y la IA, que facilite una praxis y una investigación en torno a las potencialidades y riesgos de esta tecnología disruptiva. Desde el Grupo de Investigación en Información y Comunicación Digital (GICID), esta décima edición del congreso materializa e impulsa una línea de investigación ya iniciada hace más de una década, en la que el Factor Relacional vertebría los diálogos posdigitales.

Space Oddity: On Spatial Narratives (Lisbon, 25-27 Jan 24)

This conference aims to bring together researchers and cultural practitioners to share (and produce) knowledge around contemporary discourses on spatial narratives and narratives on space. This discussion welcomes a multidisciplinary set of perspectives and contributions from fields such as architecture, culture, gender and urban studies, politics, design and semiotics to question and challenge the potentialities and criticalities of present spatial narratives and opportunities for future ones. We are looking for innovative and experimental approaches around the multiple natures of space and its declinations, from architectural spaces to spaces we don't know yet, from spaces of enclosure to spaces of freedom (Laing 2016), from spaces that inhabit our collective memory to the promises of more-than-human spaces (Rehman 2017).

Vision and Depiction (Delft, 7-9 Feb 24)

From 7 to 9 February 2024 we will organise the conference Vision and Depiction in Delft (the Netherlands). It can be seen as the successor of two previous conferences called The Skin of Things, which focussed on the perception and depiction of material properties. During these conferences we enjoyed contributions of vision and computer scientist, art historians, philosophers and contemporary artists.

While we maintain interested in material depiction, this new conference aims to broaden the scope to include other formal elements of images, such as texture, colour, light, and space. We are also interested in exploring the interaction between the physical aspects of pictures (the medium) and perception. Furthermore, we are curious about the integration of semiotics or iconography within the context of vision and depiction. As with the Skin of Things conferences, we hope to attract a diverse mixture of scientists, scholars, artists and designers.
